

WORK HAS BEEN initiated on an access road leading to Sikeston's new terminal building at the airport. The building is very near completion, but no plans have been announced for the opening. The building consists of a lobby, scheduled flights office, a pilots lounge for mapping and a lavatory. The access road will be built with hot-mix asphalt. The new building, which faces south, is behind buildings formerly used for school classes. The old terminal building will be used for storage.

Barnard Affirms Blaiberg's Death Due to Rejection of Heart Graft

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Christian N. Barnard confirmed today that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest-surviving heart graft patient, died because his heart failed under the onslaught of rejection.

Barnard told a news conference at Cape Town University School of Medicine the day after his famous patient died that results of an autopsy performed within hours of the 60-year-old retired dentist's death were not yet known, but final analysis would show that the cause of his death was rejection.

"We always felt that heart transplants were not a cure but a palliative," he said. "Eventually, the transplanted heart will be damaged so much by rejection that it will not be able to function any more."

The pioneer transplant surgeon who gave Blaiberg his new heart 19 1/2 months ago on Jan. 2, 1968. The younger Barnard is also a member of the Groote Schuur Hospital heart transplant team.

Blaiberg is survived by his wife, Eileen, and a 21-year-old daughter, Jill.

Mrs. Blaiberg said her husband was not in pain at the time of his death.

"But he was suffering," she told newsmen. "He was feeling very uncomfortable. Yesterday he hardly ate anything and I left the hospital about 7 o'clock to go and make him some cold chicken consommé. I was just home when the hospital phoned me and told me that he had died. I could not believe it."

"He went suddenly. He just asked for a glass of water and died as he took it."

Blaiberg's funeral was to take place at a Cape Town crematorium late today with a rabbi of the Jewish Reform congregation conducting the service.

Mrs. Blaiberg wept as she told newsmen her husband's last words to her, less than an hour before he died, were: "Eileen, I am dying. I know I am going."

"I never believed he could really die," she said. "He always rallied and never gave up, but I knew then that he was nearing the end."

"That was the first time since his operation that he spoke of death and the first time that he admitted he was seriously ill."

"Even during the last few days since his readmittance to the hospital, he would always say, 'I was not feeling too well yesterday, but I am much better now.'"

"Every day he would refer to yesterday, until last night. That was the first time—and his words were scarcely audible."

Dr. Barnard said after learning of Blaiberg's death: "I am afraid I have nothing to say. That is all."

Barnard has been ill with influenza and was unable to see his famous patient before his death for fear of infecting him.

Dorothy Haupt, widow of the 24-year-old mulatto whose heart Blaiberg received, said she was unable to sleep Sunday night after hearing of his death. She added that she felt no regrets at having authorized the use of her husband's heart.

Despite South Africa's race segregation policies, the transplant of a mulatto's heart to a white man caused little comment. Before Blaiberg's operation there had been exchanges of other organs such as kidneys across the color line.

Blaiberg's death left a French Dominican priest, the Rev. Charles Boulogne, 56, as the longest surviving heart transplant. He received his new heart May 12, 1968, in Paris.

In Blaiberg's case, his cardiac team slowed down the rejection process for 563 days.

The death certificate said Blaiberg died of heart failure brought on by failure of his kidneys and pneumonia.

Blaiberg, who was 60, died Sunday at 7:40 p.m. An autopsy was performed afterward but its results were not immediately disclosed.

The certificate was signed by Dr. Marius Barnard, younger brother of Dr. Christian Barnard.

Sun Brightens Missouri Fair Gate Prospects

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Sunshine has brightened the Missouri Fair grounds and encouraged larger attendance in contrast to Saturday's rainy opening.

Sunday's attendance may have reached 60,000, compared with the 36,000 persons who contended with mud puddles on opening day.

Reigning over the fair as queen is 20-year-old Janet Marie Seals, a blue-eyed blonde from Triplet, who was crowned by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Sunday night. Miss Seals was runner-up for the title last year.

Winner of a $1,000 scholarship, she will be a senior at Northeast Missouri State College this fall. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Seals.

As runner-up, Ann Francis Bruckerhoff, 19, of Hermann, won a $500 scholarship. Third place and $50 went to Beckie Calvert of Weston. The 33 queen candidates named Debbie Boyer, 18, of Amity as Miss Congeniality, and she received a $300 scholarship.

Judging of more than 1,000 exhibits continued today and exhibitors hoped for a share of nearly $300,000 in prize money.

After Saturday's rain-out, the Sunday crowd saw veteran Ernie Derr of Keokuk, Iowa, win a 50-lap stock car race in a 1969 Dodge. A six-car smash-up was one of the most spectacular accidents in nearly 20 years of stock car racing on the track, but no one was hurt.

Latest Heart Recipient Dies

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A Phoenix, Ariz., man lived only 10 hours after becoming Stanford University Hospital's 16th heart transplant patient.

Doctors said Herman Scales, 54, died Sunday.

Scales underwent a 4 1/2-hour operation late Saturday by a team of surgeons headed by Dr. Norman E. Shumway. The donor of the heart was not named.

After retiring as a Detroit nursing home operator last year, Scales moved with his wife to Phoenix.

Scales was the 142nd person in the world known to have received a heart transplant.

Gas Train Awaits Last Leg

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Railroad police guarded a train carrying 210 tons of poisonous gas today as it sat at a secluded siding on the outskirts of the city waiting to take the last 4 1/2 mile leg of a cross-country journey that stirred widespread controversy.

The train was to be moved to the VanDeMark Chemical Co., which uses the gas in the production of pesticides, dyes, pharmaceuticals and plastics.

The gas—surplus phosgene from World War I—is part of two shipments to different sections of the country from the Army's Rocky Mountain Arsenal in Colorado. The other shipment was to Geismar, La.

State Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-Buffalo, had called the canisters in which the gas was being transported unsafe. He said they were corroded.

A VanDeMark spokesman, however, said the canisters were in good condition.

Four Escape from Jail in Jackson

JACKSON, Mo. (AP) — Authorities are searching today for four escapees from the Cape Girardeau County jail, including a trusty who had only 10 days to go on his jail term.

Sheriff Ivan McClain said the 17-year-old trusty, David Lee Ing of Cape Girardeau, was serving the remainder of a 30-day term on a charge of driving a stolen vehicle. Ing was sleeping on a cot outside the crowded cell block.

McClain said the cell block was opened late Sunday night while the guard was busy in the front of the building. The other three men who escaped were identified as William E. Lawless, 37, Coulterville, Ill.; Charles Rhymer, 26, Charleston, and John Hays, 22, Portageville. None was being held on a serious charge, the sheriff said.

The four men made their way to the basement of the building without detection. The sheriff said they apparently then fled in a car they had waiting. Another man in the cell block refused to make the break.

Haynsworth Nixon's Court Choice

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon today nominated Federal Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of Greenville, S.C., to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Nixon in making the announcement through his presidential press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said he picked Haynsworth because he feels he is "a man who has a proven record as a jurist, both as associate judge and chief judge of one of this country's busiest courts of appeal."

Haynsworth, 56, chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeal in Richmond, Va., fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Abe Fortas last May. This was Nixon's second nomination for the high court. He named Chief Justice Warren E. Burger last June. Burger succeeded Justice Earl Warren.

Nixon cited Haynsworth's "distinguished record as a practicing attorney and also his distinguished record as a leading citizen of his community during the years of his private practice."

In a statement read to newsmen, Ziegler added: "Judge Haynsworth meets the qualifications which the president believes are essential for an associate justice to the Supreme Court of the United States."

It was the first time Nixon talked to Haynsworth, Ziegler said, although Atty. Gen. John Mitchell had told the judge several weeks ago that his name was one of those under consideration.

Haynsworth is a Democrat. The Western White House sought today to allay a controversy concerning a conflict of interest charge that had been leveled against Judge

Haynsworth Nixon's Court Choice

Haynsworth by the Textile Workers Union of America six years ago after he participated in a decision involving a Southern textile firm that was unfavorable to the union.

Haynsworth said last week that a Justice Department investigation exonerated him of this charge in the 1963 Federal Court decision.

And today, Ziegler said the Justice Department was making available all of details regarding this case, which occurred when Robert F. Kennedy was attorney general.

The record indicates, Ziegler said, that "the assertions regarding his (Haynsworth's) conflict of interest were totally put to rest and there is no substance to these particular assertions."

The money was taken from vending machines.

Hurricane Rips Gulf Coast

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Hurricane Camille raked the Mississippi Gulf Coast with murderous winds and lashing seas early today, leaving at least 14 dead in its wide path of devastation.

The weather bureau at Jackson, the state capital 200 miles north, listed 10 dead in Biloxi, two dead in Gulfport and two dead in Moss Point. Biloxi is 15 miles east of Gulfport while Moss Point lies between Biloxi and Mobile, Ala.

Red Cross headquarters in Washington said reports from its field units indicated 70,000 persons were housed in 287 shelters last night in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

The big Gulf storm, one of the worst in years with its winds of 190 miles an hour, slammed into the coast during the night after whipping across Louisiana's low marshlands and skirting New Orleans. There was still no report of its effects in the tideland area of Louisiana where communications was almost non-existent.

Gulfport and Biloxi, also difficult to reach by phone, were without electricity, gas or drinking water. A Gulfport hospital reported treating about 50 persons, none apparently injured seriously.

The hurricane continued its trek across central Mississippi today. Winds of 100 miles an hour lashed Hattiesburg while Columbia reported utility poles down and trees uprooted.

The storm spent most of its fury on the long strip of white beach along the Gulf Coast from Gulfport to Biloxi. Its eye moved inland before midnight and sent waves roaring over the highway and destroyed 40 of the 250 buildings on the big Naval Seabee Base north of Gulfport.

Biloxi Mayor Daniel Guice estimated damages during the night at $10 million to Biloxi. But after a daylight inspection this morning he said "that's a very conservative estimate."

Civil Defense officials feared that "many more bodies" would be found as rescue workers waded through the wreckage littering the town and its fringes.

Because of a communications failure due to the crushing winds and tide waters, Civil Defense officials were unable to confirm reports of heavy damage to other points along the coast. The strip is dotted with small towns and fishing camps where many have vacation homes.

But the Jackson weather bureau said the town of Waveland, between New Orleans and Gulfport, was completely destroyed.

Alabama's thin Gulf strip and the northern Panhandle of Florida escaped the battering that had been expected. The storm swooped in from the Gulf, rumbled over the southeastern tip of Louisiana, skirted 60 miles east of New Orleans, then thundered into the Mississippi coast.

The storm knocked out several sections of a bridge on U.S. 90 between Biloxi and Ocean Springs, the only southern route to Mobile, Ala., on the east.

Gulfport had no drinking water but Civil Defense authorities said "the prospects are good" for getting some in the next few hours.

National Guardsmen sealed off downtown Gulfport, a city of 30,000 and normally a center for summer vacationers, to prevent looting.

Hundreds of cars were parked around the sprawling Seabee base, where many took refuge along with the 4,000 men and their families who are stationed there, but few had any windows left.

The Gulfport hospital reported it treated about 50 persons but released all after treatment or examination.

Gulfport is fronted by a white sand beach, an area filled with sunbathers late Saturday. The beach is 60 yards wide and separates U.S. 90 from the water's edge.

But Camille pushed waves high over the protective seawall during the night's furious hours when it howled inland after battering coastal Louisiana and skirting New Orleans.

Reports of damage, particularly from fire, from other points along the coast—Waveland, Pass Christian, Bay St. Louis, Henderson Point—could not be confirmed because of the difficulty of communication. Telephone operators cautioned that even emergency calls would be slowed because of the heavy load on facilities and storm damage.

"We had winds of 150 miles an hour or better for two hours," Police Supt. Ray Decelle said.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in New Orleans, tracking Camille as she moved inland, said she was dying but still dangerous—with winds of 125 m.p.h. around her eye as she headed north toward Jackson.

Bid Reported To Dethrone Blackwell

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — The Daily Dunklin Democrat said Saturday in a copyrighted story an effort will soon be made to strip state Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, of his powers as President Pro Tem of the Missouri Senate.

The paper did not reveal the names of legislators it said are involved, but said the attempt is expected to be made just before or in the first few days of a special session of the Missouri Legislature Gov. Warren E. Hearnes is expected to call next month.

The story said the leaders of the dump - Blackwell move would make their attempt either at a majority party caucus prior to the special session or when the assembly convenes in general session.

"We lack one, maybe two votes, right now to remove Blackwell," the newspaper said it was told.

Senate Democrats were described as believing an attempt now would have better chances than earlier attempts.

Listed as possible candidates for the post, should Blackwell be removed, were Sen. John Joynet of St. Louis and Sen. William Waters of Liberty. They and Sen. A. M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau were known as members of the Senate's Old Guard and the report was that aligned with them was Sen. Richard Southern of Monroe City, once a member of Blackwell's so-called Young Turks.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
When father is around, the children are reminded that whenever they pick fruit blossoms there will be much less fruit in the fall.

HARD DAYS FOR BURLESQUE
The relatively neophyte stripper says (Esquire, August, 1969): "The girls are just going to hate me for this, but plays like Hair and this new attitude toward nudity is killing burlesque." An old-timer -- Trudy Wayne, Miss Israel, the Real Goldie Lox -- is quoted: "Sure, burlesque has lost its class and it's getting so the girls have to come on strong like they're playing a smoker or something. But the regular customers, they keep comin' back."

The truth is somewhere in between. Time was when burlesque did have a kind of class. A regular at Washington's Gayety theatre was Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. No less a belletrist than H. L. Mencken gave the stripteaser her professional name of ecstasiast.

Only five years ago burlesque -- a century - old entertainment - seemed to be having a revival. Three New York City theaters on Times Square still advertise burlesque, but the audiences are small and all male. One of them charges $4 for a show lasting about an hour and 40 minutes. The operators make a small profit on four shows a day plus a midnight show on Saturday.

What will distress the traditionalist the most, perhaps, is that burlesque has lost its sense of humor. The strippers no longer seem to be really teasing their audiences, and the comedians are mostly long gone. Variety, the weekly show biz journal, puts it quite sadly (July 23): "The guys used to say that they went for the comics, and the strippers were incidental; today the burley fan is given no such excuse."

"Strong personality" is a good compliment to use when in doubt about what to say concerning anyone, should praise seem advisable. The complimented will take it to mean that he is original and firm in his decisions and opinions, though it may mean that he is bullheaded and stubborn.

Thesaurus. In Charleston, W. Va., after consulting the rule book, Western Union told Mrs. A. W. Hawkins Jr. that she must use no such insulting word as "moron" in her telegram, accepted the wire when she substituted "witting."

HOW MANY MORE?
We have often commented on the numerous cases of repeat crimes by lawbreakers. Though weary of the repetition itself, we are even more tired of the need for repeating ourselves.

One of the latest cases brought death to a five-month-old baby girl, taken from her parents' apartment in Staten Island, N. Y. while they slept. The infant was severely beaten, and two hours after she was admitted to a hospital was dead of a skull fracture. Police arrested the man who had been seen carrying the bleeding child through the streets. At the time of his arrest he was holding the child in his arms. When confronted by the officers, the culprit said that the baby was asleep and that he was going to put it to bed.

The same man had previously been arrested for molesting a young boy. Was there no way of preventing him from this repeat performances? We cannot continue allowing this to happen. If a man is mentally ill and dangerous to society, he should be confined for his own good as well as the good of the people. How many infants and children must suffer life-long trauma or loss of life because of the misjudgment of social reformers? Something must be done and soon. It is up to all of us to inform our legislators and other appropriate officials that we will no longer accept excuses for their indulgence of criminals. These crimes continue. Someone must pay for them. That is, someone other than the victims. There is a breaking point for practically everything and our society seems to be approaching it. It is our view that the root cause of the breakdown in law and order is all too often caused by the very men who are charged with the responsibility of enforcing law and order.

Dearmont Oliver reports as far as the federal government is concerned he thinks the last leader to lower taxes was King George.

Here's a Sixth Grader's bouquet for Mother: "I respect my mother because there never was a time when she didn't set a good example for me. She makes sure my clothes are always modest, she has strictly forbidden me to smoke, and she always sets a time for me to be home. She isn't what you would call strict, but an average mother just the way I want her to be. I respect her because by her being a good mother will make a good future mother of me."

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION, INDIAN STYLE
Indian's legislators will elect a new president of their country Saturday Aug. 16, to succeed the late Zakir Hasain. The post is largely ceremonial but assumes unusual importance because of the prospect that no political party will get a clear majority in Parliament after the 1972 general elections. In that event, the president would play a large part in choosing the new prime minister.

Unlike in years past, the ruling Congress party has been unable to agree on a single candidate for the presidency and thus preordain his election. In fact, the selection has split the party badly and for a while threatened to bring down the government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. A right-wing faction of party elders picked one of Mrs. Gandhi's political foes, Speaker of Parliament Sanjiva Reddy.

She struck back by removing Finance Minister Morarji Desai, a leader of the group that had so affronted her, and then adroitly maneuvered to win popular support by nationalizing India's biggest banks. In the meantime Reddy was being challenged for the presidency from the left and from the right. V. V. Giri, an old leader within the Congress party entered the race as an independent with the backing of left-of-center political parties. C. D. Deshmukhi entered as an independent from the right. Reddy is still the favorite, especially since Mrs. Gandhi has felt compelled to endorse him. But the complexities of an Indian presidential election make the outcome exceedingly hard to project. The electors are the members of Parliament and of the lower houses in 17 state legislatures. Each casts a different number of votes, depending on the size of his constituency. Moreover, each votes for more than one candidate, by expressing second and third preferences.

If a man is tempted to do a dishonest act, let him realize that it will be talked about; his victim will tell it everywhere. There is no truth in the foolish notion that there is great enjoyment in tricky business deals. There was never a great mistake. Honesty is the first essential if a man hopes to succeed in life. It is more important than money. When a man is dishonest to save or win a few dollars, every dollar thus saved or won eventually may cost him a hundred or more.

It is a sign you are getting old when you start looking up everything.

VIVE L EMPEREUR!
The most legendary and loved of all Frenchmen was of Italian origin. He was, of course, Napoleon Bonaparte, one of whose ancestors, Francesco Buonaparte, emigrated from Italy to Corsica in the middle of the 16th century (Even Napoleon used the Italian spelling until he was almost 27 years old.) Napoleon was born in the village of Ajaccio on the Mediterranean island of Corsica on Aug. 15, 1769. So next Friday -- the 200th anniversary of his birth -- will be a night for festivals, balls, historic pageants, fairs, and street dances in France.

David Schoenbrun has observed (As Goes France): "From Napoleon I to Napoleon III, from Marshal MacMahon through General Boulanger and Marshal Petain there has always been a military man or frustrated royalist to play the role of Roman consul in France. . . There has been a de Gaulle in France in one form of another in every generation since the Revolution. . . The latent Bonapartism of the French people is always there under the surface, always ready to erupt."

Napoleon was not merely a great general, lover, and Emperor. He gave France a public school system that still turns out exceptional scholars. He created a bureaucracy that has kept the country functioning despite wars and political chaos. The Code Napoleon justified France's laws and set the pattern for many other legal systems -- including that of Louisiana, which Napoleon I sold to the United States for $15 million. Many monuments and buildings bear his name, but only one street, the narrow Rue Bonaparte on the Left Bank.

Most of all, he loved France. And he had a French mind. Of the 75,000 casualties, French and Russian at Borodino in September 1812, he is supposed to have said: "One Paris night will replace them."

If you could be born over again, would you select different parents? When you stop to think of your faults, you probably will come to the conclusion that they could not make you much better than you are.

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: It is estimated that grammar school kids spend 320 hours a year doing home work on their lessons, or about half the time they spend complaining about this task to their parents.

Microfilming, now a $300-$500 million annual industry, is no Johnny-come-lately. Although it first received widespread popularity with the distribution of Vmail letters in World War II, its principle was discovered more than 125 years ago. It was first used militarily during the Prussian siege of Paris in 1870-71, when microfilm was employed to send messages out of the city by way of carrier pigeons and balloons.

Large as it is, the United States has less reason to fear earthquakes than many foreign lands. They have caused only 1,500 deaths here in this century, and nearly half--700--came from the 1907 shakedown in San Francisco. Since 1960, major quakes have taken 45,000 lives worldwide--less than 200 in this country.

If you are a hay fever sufferer, keep your temper until October and don't get too tired. It has been found that exhaustion and emotional upsets may help trigger a sneezing attack.

The young have a chance to fight their way out of poverty, the old rarely do. But in 1966 some 40 per cent of U.S. residents over 65 were reckoned as poor, having incomes below $2,500 a year for couples or $1,800 for single persons. Since then, inflation has made their plight worse.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

-TRICK NOT TRUCE-
On July 24, when newspapers were interpreting the lull in Vietnam fighting as a truce gesture, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported: "Through its pipelines into Hanoi, the Nixon administration has learned that the Communists definitely intend to launch another offensive."

The new offensive began on Aug. 12, 1969.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: President determined to reform State Department; fared well on trip by ignoring diplomat's advice; administration continues to woo Red China.

WASHINGTON-A vexed President Nixon, who vowed before his inauguration to shake up the State Department, is now more determined than ever to turn the place upside down.

The President has grumped privately that he got nothing but negative advice from the State Department regarding his round-the-world trip. The foreign service, apparently convinced that only career diplomats can solve international problems, resents the meddling of amateurs. The President, in the view of the striped-pants crowd, is a rank amateur.

The career diplomats, for example, stuffily advised the President against going to Romania. It would also be a mistake, they warned, for him to visit Vietnam. His appearance at these sensitive spots, they declared gravely, could upset delicate diplomacy.

As tactfully as possible, they suggest it would be better to let the professionals handle matters. They pointed out that their negotiations could be reviewed carefully before any policy decisions were made, whereas the President might be pressured into making an awkward decision on the spot.

The Pirouette-and-protocol boys also opposed the frank discussion of American aims in Asia that the President gave newsmen in Guam. His State Department advisers wanted him to play his diplomatic cards close to his chest. As it happened, the President produced his best results doing what the State Department solemnly advised him not to do. He came back with the conviction that the top levels at the State Department have become fogbound down at foggy bottom. He definitely intends to clear the air.

Note: Previous Presidents have found it difficult to make progress against the bureaucratic blubber, which gives way to Presidential pressure but invariably returns to its original form. The late President Kennedy once compared the experience to grappling with a whale. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who tried sparring with the naval bureaucracy, said it was like boxing a featherbed.

allowed to deprive them of this. To counterbalance the destructive demands of the boycotting group, he Students for Education presented a list of "demands," which are actually statement of the rights of Students on a college campus. The Students for Education requested the administration not to allow any organization to disrupt any normally scheduled classes in any manner," to require teachers to hold the students that wished to attend, and to encourage the discussions of problems, so long as they were scheduled so as not to disrupt any regular classes. The Students for Education were basically describing the situation that should exist on the properly run college or university campus. Yet on far too many campuses, small groups of militants have been allowed to destroy others' opportunities for meaningful education for weeks at a time. These disruptions have taken place because too often administrators have not been willing to protect the rights of the serious students. To meet this situation, students on campuses throughout the country should follow the example of the Students for an Education and politely but firmly request that their right to an education be respected. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ROMNEY SOCKS IT:
HUD Chief Wants Entire Cities Remade - Not Just Inner Core
George Romney is getting the heat. Labor union leaders call him a "whiz kid" and charge he's naive.

It's a pleasure to listen to the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. He says it as he sees it, he socks it to 'em as they throw it. He wants 26 million new homes. He says it can be done with new technology.

I asked him to hurdle the horizon and talk of the nation's housing needs in the realistic terms. Here is his reply, written exclusively for this column -- in the blunt terms we've come to expect from Michigan's former governor who is taking no brainwashing from anyone these days:

By George Romney
Secretary
U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.
Washington - I relish this opportunity to "visit" with the readers of Victor Riesel's column and to discuss the problem of our cities.

In the long view, the problem of our cities is not just the product of our failures. It is also the product of our successes.

The problem really began at the time the nation was founded. I believe the Declaration of Independence was an inspired document. It enunciated sound and binding principles of human society and government. But we compromised in the application of those principles. We provided freedom and opportunity for some, but not for all.

We condemned generations of Americans to slavery -- and we are still paying the price. Again, in the Civil War, we saved the nation from destruction and abolished slavery -- but we still failed to extend full citizenship to all Americans. We were not successful in applying the principle of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. And we are also paying the price for that neglect.

Then came the great agricultural and industrial revolutions. Millions of people, white and black, migrated to the inner cities in the North, many of them ill-prepared to find fulfillment in their new environment. As we built highways and freeways that shifted industry and jobs to the suburbs, we created a largely black inner-city core, surrounded by a white suburban noose.

All this helped stir up a caldron of bitterness, friction, and tension in the inner city. And these failures were compounded by another failure -- our failure over the years to build an adequate supply of housing for the people who needed it most.

Yes, we had FHA. But FHA, in the years when residential patterns were being set, imposed and perpetuated racial segregation.

We had urban renewal. But urban renewal made room for luxury offices and apartments by bulldozing people out of their homes into even worse congestion and worse housing than before.

Congress has given the Department of Housing and Urban Development a large kit of useful tools -- some old, some revised, some new -- some proven, some untried. We shall use those which offer the most promise of success.

But, as the people of this nation have learned -- the hard way -- the mere passage of new laws will not solve the problem. There is no magic legislative wand. New legislation will not of itself build new houses. It will not wipe out urban blight. It will not restore tranquility to our people.

In fact, new legislation without funds and organization to carry it out, can have the opposite effect. It can raise false hopes whose frustration brings anger, turmoil and violence.

We've also learned -- and this is a lesson we all should learn early in life -- that there is no special wisdom in Washington. There's just as much judgment and experience and ability at the local and state level as there is in the federal bureaucracy.

Unfortunately, in the past, as the Federal Government was called on to cope with some of the ills that plagued the nation's cities, the power to tax gravitated from the local to the federal level. People kept their local taxes down, but they didn't watch their federal taxes quite as closely. As a result, the tax money multiplied in Washington while the problems multiplied back home.

That's why President Nixon is proposing to redress the balance by returning some of the federal tax money in block grants to the states and municipalities.

This does not mean that the Federal Government will shirk its responsibilities or fail to use its available resources positively and vigorously.

But it does mean that the era of governmental overpromising is ended. It means that this Administration recognizes that there is a limit to what government alone can do. As the President stressed in his inaugural address, our great need now is "to reach beyond government, to enlist the legions of the concerned and the committed."

Under President Nixon's leadership, a new national effort is now underway to encourage voluntary action in a range of critical areas. It will be no substitute for government action. But it will open new doors of service for those already committed to constructive involvement -- and it will generate a dynamic involvement of those who were previously uncommitted. It will create and expand a massive national resource -- too long neglected, too long underutilized.

To mobilize those resources in a sound and creative way will mean cooperation. It will mean action. It will require commitment from industry, from labor, from all levels of government, and from a concerned and involved people.

The traditional mainspring of American progress is individual initiative, where each man is free to develop himself and reach his full potential. Our task is to make that tradition a living reality -- not just for some Americans, but for all Americans.

And within the spirit of that tradition, we must combine legislative mandate with executive resources at all levels of government, and blend them with the resources of the private sector in a new creative partnership for problem-solving.

I believe this approach can spark the housing breakthrough this nation so badly needs. Meeting the pent-up demand for housing can be our No. 1 economic opportunity in the years ahead.

But when we talk of expanded production and increased economic opportunity, we cannot think just in terms of numbers. We must think in terms of people -- especially the citizens of the inner city.

The problems of the inner city and its people can no longer be separated. Nor can they be contained within neighborhood boundaries. The problem have an impact on the entire city -- indeed the entire metropolitan area. Our solutions, therefore, cannot be centered merely on the slums. They must encompass the entire city.

That is why this Administration is reaching beyond the concept of model neighborhood development to think in terms of a total model city. The concept of concentrated public services, taking in human needs as well as improved physical standards, need not be limited just to a pocket within a city.

This concept requires coordinated effort. It requires not only public investment -- federal, state and local -- but also the strong and visible commitment of financial and manpower resources from the private sector. Moreover, it cannot succeed without the help and involvement of the entire community.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

When father is around, the children are reminded that whenever they pick fruit blossoms there will be much less fruit in the fall.

HARD DAYS FOR BURLESQUE

The relatively neophyte stripper says (Esquire, August, 1969): "The girls are just going to hate me for this, but plays like Hair and this new attitude toward nudity is killing burlesque." An old-timer -- Trudy Wayne, Miss Israel, the Real Goldie Lox -- is quoted: "Sure, burlesque has lost its class and it's getting so the girls have to come on strong like they're playing a smoker or something. But the regular customers, they keep comin' back."

The truth is somewhere in between. Time was when burlesque did have a kind of class. A regular at Washington's Gayety theatre was Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. No less a belletrist than H. L. Mencken gave the stripteaser her professional name of ecdysiast.

Only five years ago burlesque -- a century - old entertainment - seemed to be having a revival. Three New York City theaters on Times Square still advertise burlesque, but the audiences are small and all male. One of them charges $4 for a show lasting about an hour and 40 minutes. The operators make a small profit on four shows a day plus a midnight show on Saturday.

What will distress the traditionalist the most, perhaps, is that burlesque has lost its sense of humor. The strippers no longer seem to be really teasing their audiences, and the comedians are mostly long gone. Variety, the weekly show biz journal, puts it quite sadly (July 23): "The guys used to say that they went for the comics, and the strippers were incidental; today the burley fan is given no such excuse."

"Strong personality" is a good compliment to use when in doubt about what to say concerning anyone, should praise seem advisable. The compliment will take it to mean that he is original and firm in his decisions and opinions, though it may mean that he is bullheaded and stubborn.

Thesaurus. In Charleston, W. Va., after consulting the rule book, Western Union told Mrs. A. W. Hawkins Jr. that she must use no such insulting word as "moron" in her telegram, accepted the wire when she substituted "witting."

HOW MANY MORE?

We have often commented on the numerous cases of repeat crimes by lawbreakers. Though weary of the repetition itself, we are even more tired of the need for repeating ourselves.

One of the latest cases brought death to a five-month-old baby girl, taken from her parents' apartment in Staten Island, N. Y. while they slept. The infant was severely beaten, and two hours after she was admitted to a hospital was dead of a skull fracture. Police arrested the man who had been seen carrying the bleeding child through the streets. At the time of his arrest he was holding the child in his arms. When confronted by the officers, the culprit said that the baby was asleep and that he was going to put it to bed.

The same man had previously been arrested for molesting a young boy. Was there no way of preventing him from this repeat performances? We cannot continue allowing this to happen. If a man is mentally ill and dangerous to society, he should be confined for his own good as well as the good of the people. How many infants and children must suffer life-long trauma or loss of life because of the misjudgment of social reformers? Something must be done and soon. It is up to all of us to inform our legislators and other appropriate officials that we will no longer accept excuses for their indulgence of criminals. These crimes continue. Someone must pay for them. That is, someone other than the victims. There is a breaking point for practically everything and our society seems to be approaching it. It is our view that the root cause of the breakdown in law and order is all too often caused by the very men who are charged with the responsibility of enforcing law and order.

Dearmont Oliver reports as far as the federal government is concerned he thinks the last leader to lower taxes was King George.

Here's a Sixth Grader's bouquet for Mother: "I respect my mother because there never was a time when she didn't set a good example for me. She makes sure my clothes are always modest, she has strictly forbidden me to smoke, and she always sets a time for me to be home. She isn't what you would call strict, but an average mother just the way I want her to be. I respect her because by her being a good mother will make a good future mother of me."

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION, INDIAN STYLE

Indian's legislators will elect a new president of their country Saturday Aug. 16, to succeed the late Zakir Hasan. The post is largely ceremonial but assumes unusual importance because of the prospect that no political party will get a clear majority in Parliament after the 1972 general elections. In that event, the president would play a large part in choosing the new prime minister.

Unlike in years past, the ruling Congress party has been unable to agree on a single candidate for the presidency and thus preordain his election. In fact, the selection has split the party badly and for a while threatened to bring down the government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. A right-wing faction of party elders picked one of Mrs. Gandhi's political foes, Speaker of Parliament Sanjiva Reddy.

She struck back by removing Finance Minister Morarji Desai, a leader of the group that had so affronted her, and then adroitly maneuvered to win popular support by nationalizing India's biggest banks. In the meantime Reddy was being challenged for the presidency from the left and from the right. V. V. Giri, an old leader within the Congress party, entered the race as an independent with the backing of left-of-center political parties. C. D. Deshmukh entered as an independent from the right.

Reddy is still the favorite, especially since Mrs. Gandhi has felt compelled to endorse him. But the complexities of an Indian presidential election make the outcome exceedingly hard to project. The electors are the members of Parliament and of the lower houses in 17 state legislatures. Each casts a different number of votes, depending on the size of his constituency. Moreover, each votes for more than one candidate, by expressing second and third preferences.

If a man is tempted to do a dishonest act, let him realize that it will be talked about; his victim will tell it everywhere. There is no truth in the foolish notion that there is great enjoyment in tricky business deals. There was never a great mistake. Honesty is the first essential if a man hopes to succeed in life. It is more important than money. When a man is dishonest to save or win a few dollars, every dollar thus saved or won eventually may cost him a hundred or more.

It is a sign you are getting old when you start looking up everything.

Why are women such insistent backseat drivers? Little "bugs" we cannot see with our naked eyes may help save mankind from the threat of food shortage. They are bacteria. Plants can make edible proteins by employing carbon dioxide from the air. The problem is: to get rid of the bugs afterward — and to convince people that a former piece of anthracite is as nutritious as a piece of sirloin steak.

The President had planned to send the American negotiators to the meeting with a friendly overture to relax the travel and trade ban against Red China.

Despite the rebuff, he decided last month to remove some travel restrictions anyhow as a unilateral step toward relaxing Chinese-American tensions. He also asked the Romanians during his Bucharest visit to pass the word to Peking

It's a tough world for the American businessman. Every time he comes up with something new the Russians invent it a week later and the Japanese make it cheaper.

Box to new checker: "I imagine the foreman told you what to do."

New Workman: "Yes, sir, he told me to wake him up when I saw you coming."

H.L. Hunt Says

A POSITIVE POSITION
In March of this year at California State College at Dominguez Hills, a group of revolutionary students, led by the Students for a Democratic Society, conducted a week-long boycott of classes.

In response to this disruption of their education, a group of constructive students organized a group which they call Students for Education. These students believe that they are in college to obtain an education, and that farleft radicals should not be that the United States doesn't seek a Vietnam settlement that would threaten China.

Again, all Nixon got for his gesture was another rebuff. The Chinese attacked his motives and sent a charge d'affaires to head the Chinese embassy in Warsaw. This will make it awkward to renew the Chinese-American talks, since the Chinese have always insisted upon holding these talks at the Ambassadorial level.

Nevertheless, the President will continue his efforts to restore normal relations with the Chinese. As the next step, he will ease trade and travel restrictions some more.

If the Chinese should reciprocate, Nixon's onetime darling of the China Lobby—would be willing to withdraw American objections to seating Red China in the United Nations.

Note: With the Russians hammering on their back door, the Chinese may see an advantage in reducing tensions with the U.S. on June 12, this column reported that a top-secret intelligence analysis had speculated on the possibility that Moscow might stage hit-and-run strikes at China's nuclear laboratories and armament centers in order to eliminate China as a nuclear threat.

—Germ Warfare—
The Defense Department is battling behind the scenes against President Nixon's move to curb the development of nerve gases and germ warfare.

The Generals have submitted evidence to the National Security Council that Russia has a far greater stockpile of chemical and biological weapons than does the United States. The only way to prevent the use of these weapons, the generals argue, is to have the capability to retaliate.

The National Security Council has asked the Defense Department, State Department and arms control agency to prepare a thorough study of the problem.

allowed to deprive them of this, were basically describing the situation that should exist on destructive demands of the university campus. Yet on far for Education presented a list of too many campuses, small "demands," which are actually groups of militants who have been allowed to destroy others' statements of the rights of Students on a college campus. The Students for Education requested the administration not to allow any organization "to disrupt any normally scheduled classes in any manner," to require teachers to hold regularly scheduled classes for the students that wished to attend, and to encourage discussions of problems, so long as they were scheduled so as not to disrupt any regular classes.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ROMNEY SOCKS IT:
HUD Chief Wants Entire Cities Remade - Not Just Inner Core

George Romney is getting the heat. Labor is not. Some union leaders call him a "whiz kid" and charge he's naive.

Pleasure to listen to the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development he says it as he sees it. He wants 26 million new homes. He says it can be done with new technology.

I asked him to hurdle the horizon and talk of the nation's housing needs in the realistic terms. Here is his reply, written exclusively for this column -- in the blunt terms we've come to expect from Michigan's former governor who is taking no brainwashing from anyone these days:

By George Romney
Secretary
U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Washington -- I relish this opportunity to "visit" with the reporters of Victor Riesel's column and to discuss the problem of our cities.

In the long view, the problem of our cities is not just the product of our failures. It is also the product of our successes.

The problem really began at the time the nation was founded. I believe the Declaration of Independence was an inspired document. It enunciated sound and binding principles of human society and government. But we compromised in the application of those principles. We provided freedom and opportunity for some, but not for all. We condemned generations of Americans to slavery -- and we are still paying the price.

Again, in the Civil War, we saved the nation from destruction and abolished slavery -- but we still failed to extend full citizenship to all Americans. We were not successful in applying the principle of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. And we are also paying the price for that neglect.

Then came the great agricultural and industrial revolutions. Millions of people, white and black, migrated to the inner cities in the North, many of them ill-prepared to find fulfillment in their new environment. As we built highways and freeways that shifted industry and jobs to the suburbs, we created a large black inner-city core, surrounded by a white suburban noose.

All this helped stir up a caldron of bitterness, friction, and tension in the inner city. And these ailments were compounded by another failure -- our failure over the years to build an adequate supply of housing for the people who needed it most.

Yes, we had FHA. But FHA, in the years when residential patterns were being set, imposed and perpetuated racial segregation.

We had urban renewal. But urban renewal made room for luxury offices and apartments by bulldozing people out of their homes into even worse congestion and worse housing than before.

Congress has given the Department of Housing and Urban Development a large kit of useful tools -- some old, some revised, some new -- some proven, some untried. We shall use those which offer the most promise of success.

But, as the people of this nation have learned -- the hard way -- the mere passage of new laws will not solve the problem. There is no magic legislative wand. New legislation will not of itself build new houses. It will not wipe out urban blight. It will not restore tranquility to our people.

In fact, new legislation without funds and organization to carry it out, can have the opposite effect. It can raise false hopes whose frustration brings anger, turmoil and violence.

We've also learned -- and this is a lesson we all should learn early in life -- that there is no special wisdom in Washington. There's just as much judgment and experience and ability at the local and state level as there is in the federal bureaucracy.

Unfortunately, in the past, as the Federal Government was called on to cope with some of the ills that plagued the nation's cities, the power to tax gravitated from the local to the federal level. People kept their local taxes down, but they didn't watch their federal taxes quite as closely. As a result, the tax money multiplied in Washington while the problems multiplied back home.

That's why President Nixon is proposing to redress the balance by returning some of the federal tax money in block grants to the states and municipalities.

This does not mean that the Federal Government will shirk its responsibilities or fail to use its available resources positively and vigorously.

But it does mean that the era of governmental overpromising is ended. It means that this Administration recognizes that there is a limit to what government alone can do. As the President addresses our great need now is "to reach beyond government, to enlist the legions of the concerned and the committed."

Under President Nixon's leadership, a new national effort is now underway to encourage voluntary action in a range of critical areas. It will be no substitute for government action. But it will open new doors of service for those already committed to constructive involvement -- and it will generate a dynamic involvement of those who were previously uncommitted. It will create and expand a massive national resource -- too long neglected, too long underutilized.

To mobilize those resources in a sound and creative way will mean cooperation. It will mean action. It will require commitment from industry, from labor, from all levels of government, and from a concerned and involved people.

The traditional mainspring of American progress is individual initiative, where each man is free to develop himself and reach his full potential. Our task is to make that tradition a living reality -- not just for some Americans, but for all Americans.

And within the spirit of that tradition, we must combine legislative mandate with executive resources at all levels of government, and blend them with the resources of the private sector in a new creative partnership for problem-solving.

I believe this approach can spark the housing breakthrough this nation so badly needs. Meeting the pent-up demand for housing can be our No. 1 economic opportunity in the years ahead.

But when we talk of expanded production and increased economic activity, we cannot think just in terms of numbers. We must think in terms of people -- especially the citizens of the inner city.

The problems of the inner city and its people can no longer be separated. Nor can they be contained within neighborhood boundaries. The problems have an impact on the entire city -- indeed the entire metropolitan area. Our solutions, therefore, cannot be centered merely on the slums. They must encompass the entire city.

That is why this Administration is reaching beyond the concept of model neighborhood development to think in terms of a total model city. The concept of concentrated public services, taking in human needs as well as improved physical standards, need not be limited just to a pocket within a city.

This concept requires coordinated effort. It requires not only public investment -- federal, state and local -- but also the strong and visible commitment of financial and manpower resources from the private sector. Moreover, it cannot succeed without the help and involvement of the entire community.

This is the challenge and the opportunity. Each of us, by our commitment, example, and concern, can be a link in a new communication chain of the various governmental levels, the community and the people of the total city, white and black, old and young, but especially the young. I repeat -- especially the young.

Dear Ann: This letter was inspired by the man who said the girls in his office were "beginning to look better every day." He claimed his wife was always too tired to make love. Either she had a backache, or a headache -- or some other ingenious excuse.

I'd like to ask him a question. How does he treat his wife compared with the girls in the office? I met my husband in an office so I know how he acts both places. When I was his secretary he broke his neck rushing to my side to help me every time I moved a chair. At home he wouldn't stir a muscle to help me lift the refrigerator -- even if one of the kids was under it.

At the office his conversation was witty and bright. He always had a smile and a warm compliment. Now when he comes home he yells all through supper about the bills and the kids and my relatives. He gulps his food, belches, and retires to the couch with the newspaper. Then he turns on the TV. If anyone tries to start a conversation he says, "Shut up, can't you see I'm watching something?" In 20 minutes he is snoring his head off.

If complaining husbands would take some of that office charm home, maybe their wives would have fewer backaches and headaches and other ingenious excuses. -- Witnessed Both Scenes

Dear Wit: Your letter will undoubtedly be a topic for discussion in many homes tonight. Thanks for providing it.

Dear Ann: My husband has had a lot of dental work done these past few months. Like a fool, Albert neglected his teeth for 15 years and now, to save his mouth, he goes twice a week for restoration, gum treatments and what have you. Albert has been to the dentist's office so often he has become friendly with everyone in the building, especially the elevator operator. Yesterday when I went with him he slipped the operator a dollar. She smiled and said, "Oh -- not again!" But he insisted that she keep the money, and she did.

I ask you, who ever heard of tipping an elevator operator? When I explained it was in poor taste he said he didn't see why. I tried to tell him she was going up anyway and that he didn't owe her anything. We got into quite an argument. Please settle it. -- Vexed

Dear Vexed: If a steady rider wants to be a good fellow, he can buy the elevator operator a small gift for Christmas. But tipping is not called for. Like you said -- she was going up anyway.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 years old and my problem is myself. I am a liar and a braggart. When I start to tell something I find myself exaggerating so much that the story turns out to be a big lie. Why do I do this? How can I get over it? -- D.A. of Scranton

Dear D.A.: People who brag and exaggerate to the point of lying do so because they are eager to make an impression and they don't trust the truth to do it. You need to develop more self-confidence and put an end to this unattractive habit. Make a conscious effort to talk less and keep your reporting low-key and accurate.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The next time someone wants to drill a hole in your fish's head, don't send for the nearest man with a net -- it's probably just a fish biologist with the Department of Conservation.

Among a host of projects with that unique fish, the spoonbill or paddlefish, Tom Russell spends much of each spring removing pituitary glands from the heads of paddlefish.

He needs the glands to inject into brood fish to induce them to spawn. Russell is the first biologist anywhere in the world to persuade paddlefish to spawn in captivity in any numbers. Bob Needham, formerly a Department biologist, first induced spawning by hormone injection in 1963.

This could be just one of those interesting but impractical discoveries like being the first to discover that a black crappie has more dorsal fin spines than a white crappie, but it isn't.

With completion of Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir the ancient spawning beds of the paddlefish on the Osage River will be erased and the fish could be in serious trouble unless a way is found to mass produce them in hatcheries. Russell has found the way.

The operation to remove the pituitary gland involves drilling a hole with a brace and special bit through the fish's head, taking out the resulting core, removing the gland, then, if the angler wants, the plug replaced for picture or other purposes, sticking the core back in so all that shows is the inch-round outlined of the bit.

"We don't miss the gland very often," Russell says. "We have a couple of reference points on the head so we know where to drill."

The glands are quick-frozen. Then when they are needed, they are loaded in a syringe with a special solution and are soft enough they are crushed when forced through the needle point and into the mother fish releasing hormones.

Among other duties of the pituitary is that of producing a hormone which triggers spawning. There have been experiments with hormones for several years, but Russell finally hit on the right combination of dosage and timing.

Funny looks are the biggest problem Russell and his helpers face when they ask fishermen if they can remove the glands.

"The first outing or two we had quite a time," Russell says. "But now a lot of people have heard about us or are repeaters and actually bring the fish to us."

Most of the gland collecting is done in the Warsaw area of the Osage. In the 1969 spring snagging season, which ran from March 15 to May 15, Russell and his crew collected more than 100 glands.

They had a gland old time...

When Leo Durocher had his famous bellyache several weeks ago he turned to a boys camp in Wisconsin. When he has a headache he turns to his bullpen.

The manager of the Chicago Cubs wig-wagged for relief twice Sunday and, quicker than you could say "the other pain reliever," first Rich Nye and then Phil Regan came on to cure what ailed Durocher.

The outcome was a 3-1 victory over San Francisco in the nightcap of a doubleheader after the Giants took the opener 5-3 on Bobby Bonds' tie-breaking tworun single in the seventh inning. Still, the Cubs saw a full game sliced from their lead in the National League East. They lead the New York Mets by 7 1/2 games and St. Louis by eight.

Elsewhere, the Mets swept San Diego by identical 3-2 scores. St. Louis trimmed Atlanta 5-3, Pittsburgh topped Cincinnati 8-5, Los Angeles trounced Montreal 9-3 and Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2.

That left the NL West in its daily state of confusion, with the Reds one game in front of the Dodgers and 2 1/2 ahead of the Astros, Giants and Braves.

In the American League, Minnesota nipped Washington 4-3 in 13 innings. Detroit shelled Oakland 9-4, Baltimore downed Seattle 4-1, Boston shaded Kansas City 1-0, the New York Yankees took the Chicago White Sox 5-2 and California tripped Cleveland 7-6.

The Cubs-Giants pener was a cut-and-dried affair. Jim Hickman's 11th homer gave Chicago a 1-0 lead, Mays' 11th homer and 598th of his career put the Giants in front 3-1, and after the Cubs tied it in the sixth, Bonds' two-run single won it in the seventh.

Dick Selma walked five-including Willie McCovey intentionally with two out and the bases empty in the third with the score 0-0 but didn't allow a hit until Bonds slammed his 22nd homer in the fifth after the Cubs had gone ahead 3-0.

With two out in the seventh, Bonds and Ron Hunt singled and Durocher started to feel the first symptoms. He called for Nye and the left-hander ret ed pinch hitter Jim Ray Hart on a and Durocher started to feel the first symptoms. He called for Nye and the left-hander retired pinch hitter Jim Ray Hart on a tap back to the mound.

An inning later, McCovey walked—unintentionally—and with one out Ken Henderson singled. With Mays striding to the plate as a pinch hitter, a real migraine was just around the corner, so Durocher needed a big dose of his strongest relief—Regan.

The 32-year-old veteran slipped a called third strike past Mays, retired Don Mason on a grounder and set the Giants down 1-2-3 in the ninth, getting Bonds and Hunt on called third strikes.

Regan was obtained by the Dodgers from the American League after the 1966 season—the Cubs got him last year—and credits former teammates Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller, both now with Minnesota in the AL, with helping him become a successful reliever.

"Being sent to the Dodgers was a big break for me, as it turned out," Regan said. "Walt Alston tarted me on long relief first and, when I did it right, he tried me as a short reliever."

That's when Perranoski and Miller helped me. Perranoski and I usually warmed up side by side and he showed me how to get ready for a relief call without pressing.

As for Miller, he instructed me on just how to pitch to the various guys in the National League. After all, I had never seen a lot of them, including JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri teal season, Sept. 13-21, is fun for hunters, but a management headache for the Department of Conservation.

The biggest problem is that only teal — blue wing, green wing and cinnamon — will be legal game. That's like trying to pick out a dark brown buffalo from a herd of black ones as they stampede over you.

To help hunters, the Department has available a teal identification leaflet, free upon request to Department of Conservation, North Ten Mile Drive, Jefferson City, 65101.

The special hunt is to give Missourians a chance to hunt the early - migrating little ducks, but in past seasons there have been a lot of wood ducks and shovelers shot by mistake.

A heavy illegal kill almost certainly would result in the federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, which sets the teal season, cancelling any future hunts.

Conservation agents plan to work the teal season intensively to cut down on the illegal kill and urge hunters to make sure they are shooting teal before they shoot.

This type of hunt is no place for skybusters or inexperienced duck hunters. There is no special permit necessary, but all hunters must have a valid small game hunting permit and hunters 16 years old and older must have a signed waterfowl stamp on the permit.

The Mets swept San Diego for the second day in a row on Duffy Dyer's three-run homer in the opener and a two-run triple Mays."

by Bud Harrelson in the Ron Taylor put down a San nightcap, followed by J.C. Diego threat in the second, Martin's pinch sacrifice fly, extending the Padres' latest losing streak to 10 games.

Jerry Kosman hurled a fivehitter in the first game and Gene Alley's three-run homer capped a five-run uprising in the first inning and Pittsburgh overcame four Cincinnati homers to beat the Reds. Al Oliver and Willie Stargell also connected for the Pirates while Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan, J ohnny Bench and Tony Perez were the Cincy belters.

The Dodgers trailed Montreal 3-2 entering the ninth but exploded for seven runs on Bill Sudakis' two-run homer, a two-run single by Willie Davis and Wes Parker's two-run double, with Parker scoring on an error. Ty Cline and Ron Fairly hit solo homers for the Expos.

Sandy Valdespino ended Philadelphia's consecutive shutout string at four games by stealing home in the first inning and the Astros went on to edge the Phils. Doug Rader's homer helped Houston take a 3-1 going into the ninth.

After Richie Allen's 27th homer made it 3-2 with none out, Johnny Callison and Deron Johnson singled, but center fielder J. M. Wynn threw Callison out at third, preserving the triumph.

The Cardinals third sacker is currently hitting .255.

"This was a good one to win," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst summed up afterward.

"We've got to keep it up if we're going to stay in the race, because not many teams are going to beat Chicago."

Carlton Picks Up 15th

ATLANTA (AP) — "If I took out everybody that's in a slump, I'd have to put in a whole new team," Atlanta Manager Luman Harris lamented Sunday.

His Braves had just lost 5-3 to St. Louis to close out a 3-7 home stand.

"I think it's a combination of poor hitting and poor pitching," Harris went on. "I've been racking my brain for something to break this slump. Today I sent in three left-handed pinch hitters and they hit the ball a total of about 30 feet."

Harris was referring to an abortive ninth-inning attempt to generate a spark of life in the Braves' sagging offense. Mike Lum, Tito Francona and Tony Gonzalez went to the plate but failed to get the ball out of the infield, Lum watching a called third strike.

Atlanta's longball punch was all that separated the Braves from their third shutout in the last five outings. A fifth-inning bases-empty homer by Bob Tillman and back-to-back solo blasts in the sixth by Hank Aaron and Rico Carty constituted all the Braves' scoring.

Except for those two frames, Atlanta was unable to muster more than one hit per inning as the Cards' Steve Carlton racked up his 15th victory, aided by his own RBI triple in the sixth.

In spite of this, it was still 3-8 in the seventh when St. Louis got back-to-back singles from Vada Pinson and Joe Torre, Cecil Upshaw 4-4 relieved Braves starter Milt Pappas 6-10 and walked Tim McCarver to load the bases. Mike Shannon then lofted a long fly to left center which scored Pinson and J ilian J avier followed with a single to make it 5-3.

"I wasn't necessarily trying for a long fly ball," Shannon said in describing the tie-breaking blow. "I was just trying to get the bat on the ball. I'm lucky to do that."

The Cardinals third sacker is currently hitting .255.

"This was a good one to win," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst summed up afterward.

"We've got to keep it up if we're going to stay in the race, because not many teams are going to beat Chicago."

Diane Warwick
Will Sing at Fair Two Nights

DU QUOIN, ILL. - Song stylist Dionne Warwick will have only two nights Aug. 29 and 30 to make an impression on Du Quoin State Fair audiences but she's anticipating little difficulty.

A lifelong student of music,
Miss Warwick hit the big time about six years ago after her unique recording of "Don't Make Me Over." A standout career, including fabulous international successes, has followed.

In 1963 Dionne was introduced by Marlene Dietrich to Parisien audiences at the Olympia Theater. Acclaim was instant and she has since appeared in France at the Cannes tv and film festival, at the Palladium and Savoy Hotel in London, at the Grand Gala Du Disque in Amsterdam and throughout Europe.

American fans haven't been forgotten, however, for she has maintained her popularity in this country with later hits such as "Wishin' and Hopin'", "Walk On
By", "You'll Never Get To Heaven", and theme songs from the movies "Alfie" and "Valley of the Dolls".

Miss Warwick's sophisticated mannerisms, combined with her classy sound, have been noted by every publication in the entertainment field.

"Variety" magazine reported: "Dionne Warwick is a striking looker with a voice capable of off-beat effects. She impressed the audience with her song delivery and all-around stage savvy. She's a natural for the smart spots, particularly since she demonstrated far more than a teen-slanted talent with her renditions."

"Record World" said: "Miss Warwick immediately captured her audience with the tunes that carried her to international prominence. The statuesque, charming vocalist is a relaxed, professional performer with loads of stage presence."

Appearing with Dionne at the Du Quoin Fair, which opens Saturday, Aug. 23, and runs through Labor Day, will be the Doodletown Pipers, Skitch
Henderson, David Frye, the Joplin Forte, the Lou Breese orchestra and others.

Route 25 Location At Malden Approved

MALDEN--The Missouri State Highway Commission has approved plans for improving and relocating a 4.3 mile section of Missouri Route 25, at Malden, in Dunklin County.

The proposed plan calls for the improvement to begin on the existing route near the junction with the county road about 1.2 miles south of the south city limits. It continues northeasterly on relocation, crossing U.S. Route 62 about 0.6 mile east of the present Route 62-Route 25 junction in Malden. It continues northerly, crossing a county road about one mile north of Route 62, then curves to the northwest with a grade separation at the St. Louis and Southwestern Railroad tracks, and connects with existing Route 25 about .25 mile south of the Country Club Golf Course.

The Commission, in announcing its decision to improve Route 25, emphasized that extensive engineering studies have been made in the Malden area to determine the traffic needs of the community and the proper steps necessary to meet these needs.

No definite dates are fixed at this time for construction of this proposed improvement. However, the Commission has approved the tentative location now so that the necessary preliminary engineering work can go forward. Also, the Department feels that designation of the location now will be more convenient to property owners along the routing, since they will be able to fit any development plans they may have into the future highway pattern.

Kennett Boy

Drowns in Ditch

KENNETT A 16-year-old Kennett area boy drowned Thursday afternoon in the Floodway Ditch.

James Wright, son of Roscoe Wright, Route three, Kennett, disappeared under the surface of the water about 5 p.m. His body was recovered about 7:15 p.m. by volunteers.

Authorities reported that Wright has lost two other sons in accidents, one by drowning and another in an automobile wreck.

Decline in Crimes By Juveniles

FOR STODDARD AND DUNKLIN COUNTIES
BLOOMFIELD--Circuit Judge William H. Billings

released a report of juvenile cases for Dunklin and Stoddard Counties for the first six months of 1969 and states that the reports show that the total number of juvenile offenders this year is fewer than during the same period in 1967 and 1968.

The two county reports show that during the first six months of 1967 there were 135 juvenile offenders and in the first six months of 1968 the total was 99. This year total for six months is 92.

Judge Billings also serves as juvenile court judge for the Judicial Circuit. He stated that even though there had been a decrease in the number of offenses by minors under the age of 17 years there continues to be too many juveniles violating traffic and liquor and beer laws and operating automobiles while under age and without a drivers license.

Judge Billings, said that more than 50% of the cases involve these offenses and in a further effort to reduce the number of violations in these categories more stringent measures will be taken by the Juvenile Court in future violations. In a usual case of a juvenile traffic violation or liquor and beer violation, the offenders license to drive has been suspended for thirty days and the juvenile required to write a 1,000 word essay. For under age drivers, the juvenile has been ordered to wait 30 days after becoming 18 before making application for his drivers license in addition to the required essay.

The offenders have also been required to pay $10 court costs. Effective immediately juveniles who violate traffic laws or the liquor and beer laws will find their drivers license being suspended for four to six months and under age drivers will be required to wait three months after they reach 16 before they can make application for their license. Essays will be continued to required as well the payment of court cost.

Pre-Release Lectures Aid Prisoners

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Picture this if you can: You are 40 years old. For the last 20 years you have lived, worked and played inside the forbidding walls of a prison.

You've eaten off nothing but a metal tray, never ordered from a menu, have been told what time to get up, what time to go to bed and what to do during nearly every hour in between.

Now you are about to be set free to fend for yourself on the "outside."

Until recently, prisoners serving sentences within the Missouri Department of Corrections were given only an hour-long pre-release lecture before being set free.

Since March 1, however, an average of 24 inmates a week have been attending lectures and programs at the Church Prison Farm near Jefferson City, designed to help them adjust to their new role in society.

The above example is extraordinary, to be sure. But it did happen.

Ward C. Kern, assistant director of prisons, told the Associated Press of an inmate sentenced for a murder when he was 20 years old. For the past 20 years he has lived within the penitentiary walls.

Officials at the prison tried everything they could to prepare him for release. They transferred him to the Moberly Training Center for men. That didn't work. The inmate felt secure only within the main prison.

Now, after four weeks at the Church Farm pre-release center, the man is living and working in the St. Louis area. He still has a long way to go, though, Kern said.

The newly-organized pre-release center is a joint effort of Fred T. Wilkinson, director of the Department of Corrections, and Walter Sartorius, chairman of the State Board of Probation and Parole.

A dormitory at the farm has been renovated to house the pre-parolees.

Numerous mid-Missouri Professional and business men have volunteered to lecture the inmates — professors from Lincoln University, area Chambers of Commerce, the highway patrol, labor union representatives, employment security officials, city police, Salvation Army officers, church, bank and insurance people.

Half a day is spent doing institutional chores. The rest of the time the inmates are occupied with the pre-release counseling.

They are given information on employment, community resources available, parole responsibilities, legal matters, family problems and personal adjustment.

They are taken on shopping trips—mostly window shopping. A meal served on the china that most people take for granted is one of the musts on a parolee's list.

Since the center started releasing parolees about April 1, more than 50 have completed the course, Kern said only two have been returned for parole violations.

Officials said they plan to enlarge the program later to include all inmates released, not just those to be released on parole.

"Pre-release programs," Sartorius said, "used by the Federal Prison system and other states indicate the effort cuts down on return of parolees to prison."

Hearing Granted Bid To Prevent Religious Activity by Astronauts

AUSTINN, Tex. (AP) —Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair has won a federal court hearing for her suit that seeks to stop American astronauts from radioing religious matters while in space.

Mrs. O'Hair had previously instituted a suit that led to a Supreme Court ruling against mandatory prayers in public schools.

She now seeks temporary restraining order against the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the astronauts to keep them from permitting or conducting any religious activities in space, "especially the reading of the sectarian Christian religion's Bible."

Judge John R. Brown granted her request for a panel of three federal judges to hear her suit. No date was set for the hearing.

7.4-Inch Rain Sets K.C. Record

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The weather bureau measured 7.44 inches of rain in its gauge at Municipal Airport Friday, the most for any 24-hour period since record-keeping began in 1898 in Kansas City.

The record was 7.03 inches Sept. 6, 1914.

Streams were not a problem but several streets and hundreds of basements were flooded.

Pre-Release Lectures Aid Prisoners

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Picture this if you can: You are 40 years old. For the last 20 years you have lived, worked and played inside the forbidding walls of a prison.

You've eaten off nothing but a metal tray, never ordered from a menu, have been told what time to get up, what time to go to bed and what to do during nearly every hour in between. Now you are about to be set free to fend for yourself on the "outside."

Until recently, prisoners serving sentences within the Missouri Department of Corrections were given only an hour-long pre-release lecture before being set free.

Since March 1, however, an average of 24 inmates a week have been attending lectures and programs at the Church Prison Farm near Jefferson City, designed to help them adjust to their new role in society.

The above example is extraordinary, to be sure. But it did happen.

Ward C. Kern, assistant director of prisons, told the Associated Press of a murder inmate sentenced for a murder when he was 20 years old. For the past 20 years he has lived within the penitentiary walls.

Burglar and Fire Alarm Systems Made in Sikeston

By CAROL WERNECK

The Ziolack Corp., which manufactures burglar and fire alarm systems, has been operating in Sikeston three weeks under the management of James Ford.

In 1967 Ford, a young physics student, was just "piddling around" and invented the burglar alarm system he now manufactures.

The alarms are different from others.

Ziolack alarms cost $249.95 plus installation while the price of other alarm systems range from $400 to $800.

The alarms operate on a closed circuit. If any wire is broken within the unit, the alarms sound.

Another feature of the Ziolack alarm is its turn off system. While some alarms sound off when a door is opened, then, turn off when the same door is closed; the Ziolack alarm stays on until it is turned off manually.

Four warning decals are included with the Ziolack alarm. The decals may be applied to windows and doors to inform the public that property is protected by an alarm system.

Two options available for purchase with the Ziolack alarm are a battery charger which maintains a constant charge and a tell-tale.

The tell-tale makes phone calls on the alarm owner's phone when the alarm is set off.

It will call up to 10 people and relate pre-recorded messages on a tape to persons designated.

The Ziolack Corporation has nationwide distribution, and it sells to private citizens as well as businesses. There are a few Ziolack alarms installed in Sikeston homes now.

Shortly after Ford invented his alarms in 1967, he placed an advertisement in a trade suspension. These are more effective than anything the law can do," Hearnese said.

Hearnese said he does not think Missouri has very serious problems on its college and university campuses, but that the state should be farsighted so it can prevent serious problems.

Hearnese does not think the Board of Curators or other college governing boards are being pressured when the Legislature considers bill dealing with campus problems, however.

"Curators are more influenced by the school's administrators than by the Legislature," the governor said.

Hearnese said colleges should take two steps to avoid disturbances. First, they should have a procedure by which grievances of students can be handled. Second, they should have a method of handling disorders if they occur.

WONDERS DRUG CLAIMS FILED

More than $10,000 in claims for overcharges in the wonder drug price-fixing case have been filed so far, according to Christopher S. Bond, chief counsel of Consumer Protection Division, Attorney General's office.

Bond said last week that 57 claims averaging $200 each have been filed so far. He also noted that he had sent out more than 500 forms for filing for claims last week.

Under the settlement proposed in a suit brought by Attorney General John C. Danforth, approximately $800,000 is available to Missourians who can make accurate estimates of their purchases of various tetracycline products in the years 1954 through 1966.

Several large drug companies admitted price-fixing on various antibiotics, the most common one named tetracycline.

Names of the drugs of which purchase refunds will be made are Aueromycin, Terramycin, Tetracycline, Tetrax, Tetracyclin, Achromycin, Mystecilin, Panalba, Pancycin, Polycycline and Steclin.

SMALLER COUNTIES GET MORE POWER, PAY RAISES

In the past few weeks Gov. Warren E. Hearnese has signed several bills into law which affect the smaller counties of the state.

One bill signed gives third class cities power to set a tax of not more than 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation to maintain and operate nursing homes.

Another bill will give pay raises to county court judges. County judges now get $15 per day for the first 10 days of each month that they are in session, and $10 per day thereafter.

Third and fourth class counties of less than $20 million assessed valuation will stay at the old formula. In third and fourth class counties above $20 million valuation but less than $30 million, pay is set at $3,000 per year and goes to $4,000 if assessed valuation is over $30 million.

Judges in second class counties were raised from $6,000 to $7,500 per year.

Another bill permit cities of the third and fourth class to employ a city administrator to serve as chief assistant to the mayor.

magazine and received immediate response from hundreds of persons. Because he did not have a manufacturing plant set up, Ford could not fill all the orders.

In the future, Ford hopes to manufacture more items.

One item is a transistorized turn signal for cars, which will cost about $10. The transistor

If You Were the Judge False Engagement Story Defamatory

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alice and Bill lived in marital bliss but not with each other. In fact, the first time Alice ever heard of Bill and vice-versa was when, on the same morning, they each opened a newly delivered magazine and read that they were engaged to be married.

While Alice's husband took a dim view of the announcement, as did Bill's wife, the one who was most startled by it was the publisher of the magazine when Alice and Bill joined forces to sue him for libel.

"Humiliating was not the word of it," Alice complained in court. "Everytime someone looked at me in the street my neck would turn ruby red with embarrassment."

"And to make matters worse," added Bill, "my wife's the suspicious kind. Since the magazine came out, I've had to spend almost two hours every day trying to convince her that I don't know Alice any more than I know Little Red Riding Hood."

"Nonsense!" retorted the publisher. "They're blowing this thing way out of proportion. If there was an error in the announcement, it was all a harmless mistake. After all, there's nothing dishonorable or improper in becoming engaged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that misengaging Alice and Bill was defamation of character and make the publisher pay off?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that while it is not defamatory to say of a man or woman that he or she is engaged to be married, an announcement that an already married male and female are about to be married to new partners imputes a violation of the commonly accepted rules of marital morality and a deviation from community norms. Therefore, such an announcement constitutes defamation of character.

(Based upon a 1966 New York Court of Appeals Decision)

Although the deadline for filing for refunds, which are about half the price one paid for the drug, was August 16, consumers can still file for refunds and authorize the Attorney General to use the refund for the benefit of the entire state. Easy-to-follow claim forms are now available from the office of the Missouri Attorney General in Jefferson City, Kansas City and St. Louis.

These claim forms ask the consumer to set out the name of the drug purchased, the pharmacy which sold it, the year of the purchase and the estimated total amount of purchase.

Workmen Friday installed the large electric Western Union sign in front of the office on Center street. A miscalculation as to the weight of the sign caused some unexpected trouble Saturday morning. Lag screws driven into the brick wall to support steel cables running to the top of the sign gave way partially under the strain Friday evening, but quick work with a block and tackle saved the sign. Bolts were then driven entirely through the wall. Electrical connection have not been completed.

PERSPIRE HEAVILY

Let's face it.

All is not perfect in this land of ours.

America has taken some lumps and quite frankly it hurts.

But maybe we should step back and take a long hard look . . . take inventory of how we are and how we got here.

Maybe we should inspect our brighter side as well as some of our ills.

And maybe, just maybe, we'll come out thinking this country's good side far overshadows its bad.

Then maybe we'll start to do something to make it better.

Rather than knocking it, which ends up making it worse.

Lose 10 lbs. in 10 days on Grapefruit Diet

DIET OF THE STARS

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (Special) - This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S.

Because this diet really works, we have testimonials reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly, you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. No weight loss in the first four days but you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1 1/2 pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Revised and enlarged, this diet lets you stuff yourself with formerly "forbidden" foods, such as steaks trimmed with fat, roast or fried chicken, gravies, mayonnaise, lobster swimming in butter, bacon fats, sausages and scrambled eggs and still lose weight. The secret behind this "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form fat. And the grapefruit juice in this diet acts as a catalyst (the "trigger"), to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted food listed on the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. A copy of this startling successful diet can be obtained by sending $2 to Money-back guarantee. If after trying the diet you have not lost 7 pounds in the first seven days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 10 pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth.
